See below about Mexican sampling. Deb has the funds but can't get it to him quickly. The Rio Salado in northern Mexico has records of hornshell, and in 2004 dead shells were found and a series of intermittant pools. The others do not have records.

Hi Deb and Susan,

We have a chance for Steve Hein (my PhD student working on TX hornshell) to accompany some folks to sample the Rio Sabinas, Rio Salado, Rio Nadadores, and Rio San Rodrigo in northern Coahuila. They would be going from August 18-21 (very short notice).

At this point, I don't have any funds to cover such travel. Any chance you have access to some funds to do so? I expect we are talking about = $1,000 for airfare, lodging, etc.

Thanks for considering this request.

Dave
